Uncle Sam adds two new destroyers to his rapidly-expanding naval forces with the launching of the twin destroyers U. S. S. Gherardi, left, and the U. S. S. Butler at the Philadelphia navy yard. The two vessels, along with a third, the cruiser Montpelier, launched at Camden, N. J., were completed four to five months ahead of schedule. All were launched within 10 minutes of each other.

BRITISH HOLD AT SINGAPORE

Lion City, However, Kept Under Continual Bombing And Shelling

(By Associated Press) LONDON, Feb. 14.—British imperial defense forces were declared officially today to be "disputing every enemy attempt to advance farther toward the heart of Singapore town" in dogged resistance against fierce Japanese attack.

A communique said the Japanese were maintaining their pressure and keeping the "Lion city" under continual bombing and shelling. "During yesterday afternoon," the war report said, "enemy attacks developed in the Paya Lebar area and in the west. Both were in considerable strength."

"Today the enemy has maintained his pressure, supporting his attacks with a number of high-level bombing raids by large formations of aircraft, by continual shelling by his artillery, and by low dive-bombing attacks."

"His artillery has also shelled the town intermittently throughout the night and this morning."

"Our troops—British, Australian, Indian and Malayan—are disputing every enemy attempt to advance further toward the heart of Singapore town."

"In the town itself, civil defense services are making every effort to deal with the damage and civilian casualties caused by the hostile shelling and bombing."

"The heaviest fighting centers around reservoirs and it is probable the British hold the southern water basin while Japanese possess the northern one, London military commentators said."

Informed sources expressed belief that loss of the reservoirs would not affect the stand of the British garrison immediately.

Advices from Batavia, in the Netherlands East Indies, said the Singapore radio still was on the air last night, thus indicating that the city itself was in British hands up to that time.

Three hundred or more couples turned out Friday evening for the city's Victory dance, held to raise money for equipping 10 casualty stations which are to be established in the near future.

A report of the proceeds from the ticket sale is expected to be available the first of the week.

The Elks home ballroom, where the dance was held, was jammed. A Statue of Liberty pageant was held shortly before intermission. Bouquets of flowers were presented to Mrs. Arthur L. Brian, chairman of the ticket committee, Mrs. James Cavanaugh, who helped arrange the pageant, and Miss Doris Coy, who was Miss Statue of Liberty.

A 14-piece orchestra, composed entirely of Salem musicians, played for dancing. A number of out-of-town guests were present.

GERMAN SHIPS REACH SAFETY

And Storm Of Criticism Drenches Head Of Prime Minister

(By Associated Press) LONDON, Feb. 14.—Severe editorial criticism of Prime Minister Winston Churchill and his government because of the audacious sweep of the German fleet through British home waters flared today as the Bremen radio boasted that the Nazi warships had arrived safely at a German port.

Amid the storm of criticism the nation awaited with unusual interest a broadcast survey of the war situation which Churchill had scheduled for 9 p. m. (4 p. m. EWT) tomorrow before Thursday's channel battle suddenly changed the whole picture. There was wide speculation on the effect this new development might have on Churchill's plan to broadcast.

The barrage directed against the government was partly tempered by the suggestion of some newspapers that all the facts be gathered before responsibility was placed, and Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express defended the prime minister by advising Britons to help him "carry his heavy load up the hill."

The News Chronicle, liberal, said: "His (Churchill's) methods of government must be recast quickly and with a single aim in view—to retrieve as dangerous and humiliating."

$800 REPORTED IN PARALYSIS BANKS

Birthday Ball Nets $186; Figures Awaited From Other Areas

A partial report of the infantile paralysis fund campaign in Columbiana here and elsewhere in Columbiana county was made today by P. A. Presco of Salem, county chairman. The March of Dimes banks which were distributed throughout the city several weeks prior to the date of President Roosevelt's birthday collected approximately $800, Presco said. An official tabulation will be made Monday.

The President's Birthday ball held here netted $186.50, according to a report of the Phalanx fraternity which sponsored the affair. Leetonia raised a total of $175 in its paralysis fund drive, Mrs. E. G. Sauerwein, Leetonia chairman, announced.

Reports have not been received from Lisbon, Wellsville, Columbiana and East Palestine.

WAR STRATEGY SHAKEUP PLAN IS CRITICIZED

Administration Supporters Oppose Changes Now In Command

VIEWS DIFFER ON WILLKIE PROPOSAL

Tydings, Critical, Asserts United Nations Must Take Offensive

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—Administration supporters in congress today lined up against any drastic shakeup in the army and navy high command during the present grave days of the war.

There was sharp senatorial criticism of the nation's war policies. But leading administration senators said the onward march of Japan in the Pacific and the German Atlantic threat, immeasurably greater through revitalization of the Nazi fleet, made the situation too serious for any sudden change now.

Rejects Willkie Plan

Turning aside a suggestion of Wendell L. Willkie that General MacArthur be brought back from the Philippines to assume over-all leadership of the military effort, Senator Hill (D., Ala.), the majority whip, told reporters he thought this was no time to replace the men now directing the army and navy in their far-flung activities.

Hill said that no recognition would be too great for MacArthur. Senator Van Nuys (D., Ind.) said any change in the command would be likely to result in delays while a new man was surveying the situation to determine what course to follow.

But Senator Vandenberg (R., Mich.) declared it would be the best thing that could happen to the country if MacArthur could be made supreme commander of the armed forces.

"MacArthur is the only symbol we have left of military efficiency," Vandenberg said.

Must Take Offensive

Criticizing the administration's conduct of the war, Senator Tydings (D., Md.) asserted in the senate yesterday that the struggle could not be won by remaining on the defensive; that the United States and our allies must take the initiative to carry the fight to Japan and other enemies.

This could best be done, he said, by "taking a chance" and sending a heavily guarded convoy of troops to reinforce MacArthur's men or the British in Singapore.

Senator Lucas (D., Ill.) in a radio address warned that if the Axis reached the point where it need fear no reprisal, poison gas attacks on American cities might be expected.

A Japan victorious in the Orient would move on Russia, the Aleutian Islands, and then Alaska, Lucas said, adding that with air bases in Alaska, Chicago would be only four hours away, bomber time.

FUNERAL PLANNED FOR WAR VETERAN

Funeral service will be held at the Stark Memorial at 2 p. m. Monday for Jacob Hiltbrand, 55, son of Mrs. Emma Hiltbrand of Fair ave., who died yesterday morning in the veterans' hospital in Chillicothe.

Rev. G. D. Keister will conduct the service. Burial will be in Hope cemetery. The family will receive friends Sunday night at the Memorial.

Mr. Hiltbrand, born June 29, 1886, in Salem, was a lifelong resident here. Enlisting with Co. D from Salem under Captain Percy Tetlow, on June 15, 1917, he served in France and Belgium with the Co. A, 134th machine gun battalion. Wounded in action in the Argonne drive, he later returned to the United States. He was a moulder by trade.

He was a member of the Emmanuel Lutheran church, the American Legion and a charter member of the Columbiana county chapter of the 37th division, veterans' association.

Surviving are his mother, Mrs. Emma Hiltbrand; a sister, Mrs. Flora Beech of Salem; three brothers, Frank and Carl of Salem and Walter of McKeesport, Pa.; a niece and seven nephews.

GERMANY'S SPRING OFFENSIVE STARTS

It's A Thunder Of Whispers In Both This Country And Britain

(This daily feature, conducted by Dewitt MacKenzie, Wide World war analyst, is written today by Fred Vanderschmidt.)

The first German spring offensive has started and is proceeding according to plan.

The battlefield is invisible, for the offensive is a thunder of whispers in both this country and in Britain, designed to wreck the Anglo-American alliance on the shoals of mutual suspicion.

This Nazi offensive has almost every characteristic of the obscure "Britain will fight to the last Frenchman" propaganda which lured the morale of the Maginot line long before the panzers broke through on the Meuse.

The offensive is sped by the Nazi radio, although hardly any Americans or Britons get it that way. Instead it is spread by clumsy written and spoken jokes, by cynical sneers, and by occasional false rumors of dispatches. It fattens on irresponsible, tenth-hand gossip and on well-meant, but thoughtless, speech-making and interviews.

In America the Nazi idea is to spread the belief that all Englishmen are unseparably decadent and that they cannot or will not fight. Every advantage has been taken of the tragedy of Singapore to build up this lie, although the valor of thin red line which still holds at Singapore is plain enough.

In England the Nazi offensive mainly spreads the falsehood that America is in the war only for greed.

WILL TEAR LID OFF RUBBER SITUATION

AKRON, Feb. 14.—The Truman committee next Tuesday "will launch an investigation that will tear the lid off the rubber situation in this country," Senator Ralph Brewster (R-ME) a member of the committee, declared today.

Brewster told interviewers "I know that Donald Nelson and his associates in the war production board are far from satisfied with the way Jesse Jones has handled the synthetic situation."

The United States' synthetic production last year was about 10,000 tons. Secretary of Commerce Jones, as head of the federal loan agency, recently announced plans for construction of new plants which would provide about 400,000 tons annually by mid-1943—in addition to output previously planned.

The Maine Republican quoted Price Administrator Leon Henderson as saying: "The whole synthetic program is only a gleam in Jesse Jones' eye."

EIGHT-ROOM HOME RAZED BY FLAMES

Joseph O'Keefe Residence On Franklin Road Is Destroyed

The Joseph O'Keefe home on the Franklin road, opposite the entrance to Grandview cemetery, was destroyed by fire of undetermined origin late Friday night.

Fire Chief Vincent L. Malloy reported that when firemen arrived after receiving a call at 11:47 p. m., practically the entire house was ablaze. The roof had already been destroyed.

Neighbors assisted in saving much of the furniture which was in the downstairs of the eight-room house.

Firemen fought the blaze for almost four hours after laying one line of hose for 800 feet to reach the nearest hydrant.

Malloy said that only one truck was taken to the fire, since it occurred outside the city, so that two were left for city protection.

Allison told police that his empty 22 calibre revolver was carried by Nuzum, who took $7.40 from the girl in the parked car.

DEFENDERS HOLDING THEIR OWN, REPORT

Japs Also Pressing Drive Toward Java From The North

(By Associated Press) BATAVIA, N. E. I., Feb. 14.—Striking close to the heart of the Indies, Japan attacked the northeast coast of Sumatra today with airborne troops which landed from more than 100 planes near Palembang, 250 miles from Batavia, but Dutch defenders were declared officially to be more than holding their own and killing parachutists by the dozens.

Press From North, Also

The Japanese also were reported pressing down closer to Java from the north, and the Dutch command said there were unofficial reports that Bandjermasin, capital of South Borneo, had been occupied by the invaders.

The Dutch already had carried out careful destruction at the town on the South Borneo coast just across the Java sea from Batavia and the big Soerabaja naval station.

(As the danger thus came closer to the heart of the Dutch islands, the Australian radio reported that Australian and other British imperial troops landed at Batavia and "are taking up positions for the defense" of the key island.)

First Use Of Chutes

The attack of Palembang was described officially as the first confirmed Japanese use of parachutists in five weeks of operations against Netherlands Indies territory. It also was the first land operation on the 1,000-mile long island.

The first of the Japanese dropped onto Sumatra near Palembang in the morning, followed by more and more as troop carrying planes soared over, guarded by fighters, the war bulletin said.

Although troops were dropped at three places in the Palembang area, the communique said "Palembang itself is not threatened" and "there are no indication that parachutists dropped close to or entered the town."

WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH THE BRITISH

The question is legitimate. But those Americans who are giving any one of several sneering answers had better think twice.

The British haven't been getting their cars kicked off because they are afraid to fight, or because they prefer to let someone else do their fighting for them. There is nothing wrong with their courage.

The fault lies with British preparedness and capacity. Great Britain began this war with two strikes on it. Muddle-mindedness and soulful yearning for a winning combination of peace and profit had given the once redoubtable lion the pip; he was in no shape to fight to the death.

In Norway, in Belgium, in Greece, in Crete, in Libya and in Malaya the British have taken their beating at the hands of Germans, Italians and Japanese. They have brought out the goose pimples on every American who had hoped that it might be arranged somehow for the British to do the fighting while he and his countrymen produced the weapons and did the coat-holding—at a reasonable profit, of course, with double time for Sundays and time and a half for everything over 40 hours a week.

What has happened to the British in this war so far is very sad. But before too many Americans adopt the sneering propaganda line the Axis wants them to take about their ally, they had better reflect that what has happened to them so far is very sad, too. They haven't given the British anything to feel good about, either. When they do, that will be time enough to make sneering comments on British fighting ability. It's going to take a lot of improvement by both allies before the opposition can be robbed of the initiative it seized in 1939 and is still holding.

TWO NATIONS LOST AT SINGAPORE

Japan's striking power has lashed through the East and South China seas and curled into the Indian ocean past the British stronghold at Singapore.

That is the unadorned account of one of the great military campaigns of all time. Its success was assured by two factors. Japan was thoroughly prepared; its victims were thoroughly unprepared.

There were two victims, Great Britain and the United States. They depended heavily on each other in the far East. Though Singapore was Britain's responsibility, just as the Philippines were the responsibility of the United States, the security of each depended on the other.

Both now have been deprived of what scant security they had salvaged from the fiasco at Pearl Harbor, the fall of Manila, the advance of Japanese forces through Malaya and the encroachment of Japanese influence on the southern Pacific area. Java and Australia have been placed in the gravest danger. It can be foreseen that within a matter of weeks, except for continued local resistance with no effect on grand strategy, Japan will be master of the Pacific ocean as far to the east as the practical bombing range from the Hawaiian Islands.

The United States was the real loser at Singapore. The east routed the inadequate forces of the west. The guiding authority behind those forces did not know what it wanted, except to be let alone. Japan, on the other hand, knew exactly what it wanted and already has obtained so much of it that the loss now can be recovered, if at all, only over a period of years, at extreme cost. One of the turning points of the war was passed when Japan gained the upper hand on the island of Singapore.

VOTE OF CONFIDENCE

Bear stories about what its critics will do to the Churchill government now are being circulated again. Chances are, of course, that nothing at all will happen. If and when there is another vote of confidence, Mr. Churchill will come out of it with flying colors. Great Britain is losing the war, but until someone else can convince an overwhelming majority that he knows how to win the war Mr. Churchill probably will continue to be prime minister.

In the United States, meanwhile, there can be no threat of a vote of confidence. Whatever advantages may lurk in the parliamentary system—and they are obscure—are not offered by the American structure. President Roosevelt's term is fixed; so are the terms of congressmen. The earliest that voters can give new instructions to their legislators is next November; their first chance to pass on policies of the Roosevelt administration will be in 1944.

William Hazlett in last Sunday's New York Times argued for a switch to the parliamentary system in the United States, to provide more flexibility. Mr. Hazlett did not bother to point out that rigidity also may be advantageous on occasion. For instance, Mr. Churchill might wish sometimes that he could trade places with Mr. Roosevelt, who will be held answerable for the job he has done when he has had an opportunity to do it.

BADGE OF DISTINCTION

As grocery manufacturers have hastened to explain, curtailment of tin cans will not affect the ultimate consumer directly, due to stocks of canned goods and supplies of cans already on hand. Nevertheless, the tin can, like the rubber tire, is destined to dwindle—and no one can be indifferent to the probable effect. Glass can and will take up a lot of the slack in the canned goods field, but the can will continue to be missed till it returns.

It was a national badge of distinction. A civilization dedicated to distribution of the good things of life was built on a foundation of tin cans. There were times when manufacturers threatened to put everything under the sun in cans—and did—and finally they even put the vitamin benefits of the sun in there with it. Oil for the lamps of China was shipped in cans, and pineapple juice from Hawaii, and sardines from Norway and even the lowly potato.

Sometimes it seemed as though the thing might be going too far, but as long as it was harmless no one bothered about it. And any time within the last 25 years one dollar would have covered a bet of 10 dollars that nothing ever was going to happen to cans. But too much was taken for granted, which is the canned explanation of almost everything happening lately.

The mind also may be morbid and have eccentric or irregular disturbances, best restrained by sound philosophy or aboriginal occupations.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of sharp and unwelcome upheaval or devastating experience, which is not promising for great success or happiness. Its reactions may be felt most on the physical health.

A child born on this day will probably be erratic, unsettled and difficult to understand or direct. It should be helped with an optimistic and rational attitude toward life.

For Monday, February 16

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is a rather indifferent one in various ways. There may be indifference in needful business application, with a similar indifference in social or personal affiliations. There is danger in seeking solace for the lack of keen interest or thrilling adventure by paying too high a price for compensation.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of routine matters in both business and personal affairs, in which there may be a disposition to while away the time or seek diversions of a rather extravagant or unjustifiable manner, probably through gambling, speculation, or other hazardous conduct or excesses.

A child born on this day will probably have mediocre talents and social aims but may be inclined to find pleasures in games of chance or speculation.

LOTTERY WILL SET NEW DRAFT ORDER

425,000 Ohioans Will Answer Nine Questions at Registration

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, Feb. 14.—The order in which men who register for military service today, Sunday and Monday will be drafted will be determined by a national lottery, Col. C. W. Goble, state selective service director, announced today.

The 425,000 Ohioans between the ages of 20 and 45 participating in the third registration will answer nine simple questions and receive registration certificates, he said, adding that questionnaires will not be sent the men until their order numbers are established.

Study Eligibility First

Physical examinations, Goble asserted, will be conducted only after local boards have passed on applicants' general qualifications and determined whether they should be deferred for reasons other than physical disability.

State selective service officials said they had received no instructions concerning the integration of new registrants into the lists of those who signed up previously.

Machinery for the registration was ready and 4,000 volunteer registrars were waiting the Saturday noon "go" signal.

Goble was prepared to send registrars into defense plants and other industries so that workers there could be registered with the least possible interference with production.

Special registrars also were ready to go to the homes of men unable to come to registration points because of illness or other incapacity.

Men uncertain whether they should register or unable to come to board headquarters were told to inform the board of this immediately.

Based on Community Needs

Local boards had orders to operate according to the needs of their communities. Some are planning as many as six branch offices, others have taken over large central quarters and will conduct all registrations at this point.

Men away from home may go to the most convenient registration point and their cards will be sent to their local boards. Those with more than one permanent address must select the board which will have jurisdiction over them.

Registrants must carry draft certificates with them at all times and show them to proper authorities upon requests.

Hours of the registration are from noon to 6 p. m. tomorrow and Sunday and from 7 a. m. to 9 p. m. Monday.

CITES DUTIES OF UNIVERSITIES

Clendening Discusses The Draft And Education

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

I APPROVE heartily of the compromise agreement reached by congress recently on making the ages for the draft from twenty to forty-five. The exclusion of the ages eighteen and nineteen, has many advantages. Few young men at those ages are able to endure such severe physical hardship and strain as they might be called on to do in military service. The bones are not set completely at those ages, nor have the muscles acquired the highest grade of tonicity.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through this column.

There are even more patent reasons for deferring the call of those men. Anyone who has been on the campus of one of our large universities must realize the extent of the numerical population that is in the educational process at the age levels of eighteen to twenty-one.

At the University of California I was told last summer that there were 18,000 students. This means at least 8,000 men, of whom at least 7,000 are between ages eighteen to twenty-one. It is certainly better for the future of civilization, for which we are fighting that they be allowed to finish their education.

Duty of Universities

In this respect the universities have a considerable duty and obligation. It is up to them to see that the time of this group is not wasted from the standpoint of military usefulness. Nowadays we should expect that a graduate even from high school will know the manual of arms, drill, and elementary combat infantry formations.

But that is only the beginning. Practical courses should be instituted so that the graduates of universities will be able to fill the technical positions so necessary for the new army. I have seen newspaper accounts of the fact that universities are announcing courses in aeronautical and automobile mechanics. This is the spectacular part and is not enough.

Every college graduate today should have some training in such useful trades as carpentry, plumbing, stenography, typewriting, electrical mechanics, photography, metal working, etc. Everybody thinks he is a carpenter, but that doesn't make him one, as we found in the emergency when the camp buildings had to be put up.

Training in College

In the army are needed hospital orderlies and they might as well be trained during the college years: in first aid, the principles of surgical asepsis, bed making, taking temperatures, pulse and respiration accurately, bed pan drill and elementary anatomy and physiology.

This applies to the female side of the universities that are co-educational. We hear there is a shortage of nursing material. Two hours a day for the coeds from ages eighteen to twenty could be well spent in the same course as that for the male hospital orderlies. With such training our girl graduates could do eighty per cent of the work of the trained nurse and do it quite effectively.

In fact there is no reason why such strictly practical courses should not be continued as a regular part of the university curriculum. The times ahead are going to be strictly practical for some decades. It will hardly suffice for the universities to turn out only a group who are obviously headed for Ph.D.'s and teaching jobs; or are trained only in doctrinaire discussions of social science or protozoology.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

M. I. D.: What, if any, harm is done by the use of adreno-cortical extract, and how long can its use be continued?

Answer: Adreno-cortical extract is a very complicated substance. It is destined for use only in special cases and it is certainly better to leave these questions to your doctor rather than to try to decide them yourself.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet costs 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp to Dr. Logan Clendening, 235 E. 45th st., New York. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene," and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

"Jesus Passes By" Trinity Church Topic

The Rev. George D. Keister will speak on the subject, "Jesus Passes By" tomorrow at the Holy Trinity Lutheran church at 11 o'clock.

"There have been numerous attempts to eliminate Christ and His Gospel from the thoughts and lives of this present generation. The scientists would assure us that now with our increased culture and education we can be independent of the past spiritual teachings.

The present catastrophe is strong evidence that the best of culture and the most brilliant of mental development may bring disaster to the whole of our present civilization unless our spiritual and moral strength is developed and increased. The most dangerous and destructive nation or person is one who is developed in mind but untrained in heart and soul.

Jesus Christ is the power which can make our lives and the whole picture of this present generation have a program of helplessness instead of destructiveness and a spirit of love instead of hate."

Other services for tomorrow and announcements for the week are:

Wake Up, America

A preacher in Bournemouth, England, wrote recently: "We have been a pleasure-loving people dishonoring God's day, picnicking and bathing—Now the seashores are barred; no picnics, no bathing.

"We have preferred motor travel to church-going—Now there is a shortage of motor fuel.

"We have ignored the ringing of the church bells calling us to worship—Now the bells cannot ring except to warn of invasion.

"We have left the churches half empty when they should have been filled with worshippers—Now they are in ruins.

"We would not listen to the way of peace—Now we are forced to listen to the way of war.

"The food for which we forgot to return thanks—Now is unobtainable.

"The service we refused to give to God—Now is conscripted for the country.

"Lives we refused to live under God's control—Now war under the nations control.

"Nights we would not spend in watching unto prayer—Now are spent in anxious all-raid precautions."

America is as guilty as England.

"THURSDAY'S CHILD" by VERA BROWN

FROM THE OLD RHYME: "THURSDAY'S CHILD HAS FAR TO GO"

Labor Day found Sonny alone in her apartment. Octavia was off. She cooked her own breakfast, the first time she had done that in many a day, and it was fun.

After that, she sat down to read the newspapers. Turning to Winchell's column, her heart sank. . . . there was her name.

The item mentioned nothing about the motor ride, but did note her sudden friendship with Al Corey and that she had supper with him frequently.

That's rather difficult to be able to go out with Al any more. When he called in the afternoon, she told him.

"You sound low. Suppose I come up for a while," he said.

"Please I want to talk to you." Al came, repentant as usual. I'm sorry about it, Sonny. But why worry? It's going to be like that always.

"But I don't do anything wrong." "Of course not. But you're nervous." They talked desultorily for a while. Then the conversation turned to Carol. Afterward Sonny realized that Al had mentioned her frequently during the last few days.

"She's so genuine. You ought to see her more."

"That's rather difficult the way things are. I'm not welcomed much by the family."

"Don't let the family stop you." Sonny was firm in her decision not to go to the club any more. When Al went off, she had some supper sent up to her apartment.

That night Sonny seemed to realize for the first time how hopeless everything was for her. She wept a long time before she fell asleep.

Next morning Octavia was back. She brought in a stack of mail. They couldn't all be bills! But they were! Sonny began to open them but, the sight of some of the totals so shocked her, she hid them under her pillow. Kirk would be furious. Her six months' allowance was gone and she owed thousands.

"I went crazy!" She felt as though she were awakened up from a queer dream.

Kirk would be back. Should she telephone him? But she did not have the courage. He'd call soon enough and he'd never forgive her.

It was almost noon when Kirk finally telephoned, saying he wanted to see Leslie. She invited him to her apartment and he arrived in half an hour.

Sonny looked subdued, and the traces of tears were visible. "Come. I want to show you through the apartment!" she said.

Dick had prepared Kirk somewhat, but even Dick's description had not quite fortified him. It was worse than he had imagined. So bad, he felt suddenly ashamed as Carol had. It was really his fault, shunting off the girl on Ann.

"Very nice. Such an excellent view," managed.

"You're hungry. Octavia will give you some lunch."

She looked up at him pleadingly: "You're angry!"

Kirk did not reply to that remark: "Come over here and sit beside me. I want to talk to you."

She came obediently, like a small girl who knew she had been disobedient.

"Do you want me to keep the guardianship?"

"Oh, Kirk!" Sonny caught his arm.

"Then you must do as I say."

"What do you want me to do?" she asked contently.

"I want you to be happy, Leslie."

"That should be easy. I have everything, a lovely home, enough money—" her voice was bitter.

Kirk put his arm around her shoulders: "My dear, my dear. It's been a bitter lesson. Happiness is hard to find."

"What is it, Kirk?" She looked up pleadingly into his face. Her hair brushed his cheek.

It was a long time before he trusted himself to answer: "That's one of the hardest questions in the world."

Then Octavia brought in their luncheon. Kirk was grateful for the interruption.

While they ate, Kirk told Leslie about his vacation. She asked dutifully about Janice and the Hollisters.

"Mother's not so well. Sonny, I'm worried about her. She doesn't seem to have any interest in anything."

Then he was sorry he had spoken. She leaned toward him across the table:

"If I could do something, I would gladly."

"I know," Kirk said, then changed the subject.

Luncheon over, Kirk announced: "Time for business!"

"You're not going to scold me too much?"

"I'm not going to scold you at all. Just talk things over. We've got to understand each other. To begin with, I want you to understand how I feel about this apartment. I blame myself—"

Tears came to Sonny's eyes. I might as well tell you. I've spent so much money. I don't know how it happened, but it just went. The bills scare me."

Kirk did not answer for a moment.

"One thing I want you to know. I'll never complain how much money you spend, as long as you get your money's worth. There's money enough. It's the question of value that's important."

He stood up. He might just as well get the worst over with. "Let me see the bills."

Sonny went to her bedroom and came back with the stack of them hidden behind her back: "Promise me you won't look at them until you've gone. I couldn't bear any more scolding."

And Kirk had not even started! He held out his hands for the bills. On top was one for the bright Spanish shawl which leaped out from its corner on the piano.

"It was a bargain," Sonny cried defensively when she saw him read the figure. "Real imported Spanish, from Cuba."

"I'm not arguing that." He squirmed his shoulders.

"Darling, you want the truth, don't you?" He looked down at her, so small and defenseless, and hesitated even at the last moment.

"Of course."

He took a deep breath. "Well, here goes. This apartment is awful!"

It was out. If he had struck her, Sonny could not have been more surprised. She had been prepared for almost anything but this. Desperately hurt, her anger flamed: "That's a lie! It's beautiful. Everybody says so—Carol. Al. everybody!"

He took her hand but she snatched it away, in that moment hating him from the bottom of her heart.

"Honestly, Sonny, it's awful. It's full of junk. It's crammed with all kinds of useless and un-beautiful things—except yourself. It's cheap and tawdry and the colors are dreadful. Even the furniture itself is ordinary."

Still speechless, the girl would not believe she had heard correctly.

"You don't understand—"

"That's just the trouble. I do. You've got to know, Sonny." His voice pleaded with her not to hate him too much. For only now when he saw her eyes did he realize how much the apartment meant to her. Had he known, he could not have been so cruel.

"You're too fine for all this junk." He waved his hand around the room and the disgust in his voice told her much more than his words.

Sonny's eyes widened. Suddenly as she stood there, all her possessions seemed suddenly to have a different perspective, as though she were seeing them through his eyes. They were garish and ugly!

For a moment the memory of that room in which she and Tom were married that day in June came back to her; a room, full of flowers and sunshine and old mahogany, and the old Justice performing the marriage ceremony. You wanted to spend the rest of your life in it, she thought.

When she spoke again, her voice was different. "It is terrible, isn't it?"

Kirk turned away for a moment. He could not watch her. He had been too cruel. He came over to her, put both arms about her.

U. S. Helps Defend Dutch Caribbean Islands

Street scene in Willemstad, capital of the Curacao colony

State department in Washington announces U. S. troops have been sent to the Dutch islands of Curacao and Aruba, in the Curacao colony of six islands in the Caribbean sea just north of Venezuela, to help defend the strategic isles. The Netherlands government made the request. U. S. forces already are stationed in Netherlands Guiana (Surinam) on the northern Brazilian boundary to help guard the bauxite mines there. Area of Curacao is 210 square miles; of Aruba, 70 square miles. Large oil refineries are located on the islands, the oil coming from Venezuela. The harbor of Curacao also is important. In 1939 nearly 7,000 ships with a gross register of 27,000,000 tons entered the harbor.

Australia's "Burma Road" Begins Here

View of army camp at Alice Springs, Australia

Australia's own important "Burma road," the new four-lane defense highway from the barren interior to northern ports, begins at Alice Springs, virtually in the center of the continent. Sinews of war from the industrial south are transported over this highway which terminates at Birdum, where a railroad line runs directly to the port of Darwin, site of a naval base. The picture shows an Australian army camp at Alice Springs. Australia soon may become the center of the Allied war effort in the southwest Pacific, according to some reports.

Given New Naval Command

Vice Admiral Leary

Vice Admiral Glassford, Jr.

Naval forces of the United Nations in the Australian-New Zealand area have been combined under the command of Vice Admiral Herbert F. Leary of the U. S. navy. At the same time, Vice Admiral William A. Glassford, Jr., has been placed in charge of the Asiatic fleet, henceforth to be known as the U. S. Naval Forces, Southwest Pacific. Admiral Thomas C. Hart, for two years commander-in-chief of the Asiatic fleet, still remains as commander of the combined naval forces in the American-British-Dutch-Australian area.

Made Rear Admiral

The United States Senate confirmed the promotion of Capt. Howard L. Vickery of the U. S. Maritime Commission to Rear Admiral, U. S. N. Vickery supervised the Commission's wartime construction program of eighteen million tons of new cargo vessels since 1937. At the age of forty-nine, he is one of the youngest men to hold his new rank.

Million-Dollar Blaze Hits Philadelphia

A spectacular eight-alarm fire, one of the worst in Philadelphia's history, swept through a triangular area of stores and homes in the northwest section of the city causing damages estimated at $1,000,000. The homes of fifty families were destroyed and several hundred persons were driven to the street.

First Photo of Russia's Winter Bomber

One reason for the sensational Russian push against the Nazis is the Red Army's ability to keep 'em flying at twenty below zero and lower, temperatures that solidify ordinary lubricating grease into an ice-like block. This is the PE-2, twin-engine superspeed bomber in its natural winter terrain, as it prepares to take off for a raid. The reputation the PE-2 has won for itself is enviable, but details of its winter performances remain a closely guarded secret.

Quakers Spill Akron West, 29-20, For 12th Win Of Campaign

SALEM'S 14 POINT SPREE IN THIRD PERIOD NETS WIN

Quakers Minus Services Of McGaffick Again; Capel Sets Pace

Salem High's cage squad journeyed to Akron West last night minus the services of Ray McGaffick, high-scoring forward, but managed to return home with a 29-20 triumph under their belts after a good, clean game on the Buchtel High floor.

Before the small crowd which gathered to view the tilt, the Quakers put on a burst of scoring power to sew up the verdict late in the third period as Carl Capel, substituting for McGaffick, hit the hoop for six points. From there on in it was just a matter of keeping possession of the ball so that the Cowboys could do no scoring on their own hook.

Akron led after a slow first quarter by a 4-3 count but failed to match a second stanza spree put on by Salem and fell behind never to threaten seriously again. In the course of the fray, at the intermission, the Red and Black were ahead, 13-8, through the work of the entire team, none of whom counted more than three markers in the frame.

Capel Stars

With Capel's six points setting the pace in the third frame, the Quakers tallied 14 points to sock the game in the well known bag. Bob Scullion, playing with three clamps in his scalp which held together a serious gash suffered in a Thursday night workout, tossed in four tallies in this frame to help the cause considerably while Sal Guappone and Sammy Pridon accounted for a bucket apiece.

The Cowboys threatened to rally in the final stanza but folded as their victory attack failed to materialize. After trailing by 27-15 at the end of the three quarter stage of the contest, they flipped in five straight points before the Salem defense closed in to stop them.

A pretty ball-freezing exhibition during most of the last four minutes of play kept the Akronites from hitting the hoop. The Quakers scored only two points in the quarter, those on Larry Frost's last second fielder, but monopolized the right of the ball to such an extent that the Cowboys' machine was stopped in its tracks.

Johnny Volo did an exceptionally fine job in holding down Finney, the Cowboys' colored ace, without a field goal, while the rest of the Quakers had their own men well under control. Novak proved to be the only member of the West team who could hit the rim consistently. He slashed the netting for a quartet of buckets and a lone foul shot for a nine point total. The rest of the outfit seemed to be somewhat off form in comparison of the exhibitions they have given in recent battles.

Carl Capel, Sal Guappone and Bob Scullion paced the Salem attack with eight, seven, and six points, respectively, while Pridon chipped in four tallies and Volo and Frost two apiece.

Foul Shooting Improved
The Quakers started on the foul line last night as they dropped in nine straight and converted nine of 11 for the evening. On the other hand, poor shooting from the free stripe cost Akron whatever chance they had of winning as they made only four of 11.

The Quakers will meet the Alliance Aviators in a return game on the local floor Tuesday night. The Red and Blue cagers were much weak by mid-year graduation but still pack power enough to appear as a formidable foe. The reserve teams of the two schools will meet in the preliminary contest.

Ray McGaffick has recovered from his recent illness and may make an appearance in the Alliance game. His place has been well filled during his absence by Capel who has been hitting the hoops consistently.

BOSOX FLAG HOPES WANING AS DRAFT CUTS 1942 ROSTER

Manager Cronin's Plans Of Becoming a Bench Maestro Blasted

BOSTON — The Boston Red Sox, Tom Yawkey's million dollar baby, would like to know where a few more ball-players are going to come from.

The annual official published roster of the club showed 33 players — 5 outfielders, 10 infielders, 15 pitchers and 3 catchers — but including Trumpling Ted Williams, the one-man offense, and John Pesky, an A-1 shortstop with a 1-A draft rating.

Reinforcements Urgent
So reinforcements are urgent and P.D.Q. Joe Cronin might add. Four of the Sox are wearing khaki even before the record was published. These were Pitchers Mickey Harris, now on guard in a Canal Zone; Earl Johnson and Larry Roberts, at Camp Roberts in California; and First Baseman Al Blair whose address is Fort Bragg, N. C.

Weakest spot, in point of numbers, would seem to be the gardening area. Lou Finney, Pete Fox and Dom DiMaggio make a pretty first-string outfield but there's only one replacement, Johnny Wela, recently of Washington who batted only .208 in 49 games last year.

The inner line of defense seems fairly well taken care of, but even so Manager Joe has been in training to prepare himself for action in an emergency. Mr. Cronin had rather hoped he might become a bench maestro this season.

For the infield there are Jimmy Foy, Tony Lupien and Paul Campbell for first base, and then Tom Carey, Bob Doerr, Lamar Newsome, Ed Pellagrini, Jim Tabor and Pesky. Also Cronin, listed as a 1942 active. Fox, Tabor and Cronin himself can be used in the outfield.

Catching Staff Strong
Behind the plate there's a tri-umvirate of Frankie Fylik, Johnny Peacock, and Bill Conroy, up from Oakland of the Coast loop.

Now for the mound, Harris and Johnson, before they began hurling shells, were expected to form something called a nucleus—but even so there are still Dick Newsome, 13 for Louisville, and Yank Terry, who learned not to telegraph his pitches while hurling for San Diego and knocked off 26 wins against 8 losses.

The other pitchers are Mace Brown, Ken Chase, Emerson Dickman, Herbie Hash, Cecil Hugson, Anton Karl, Nelson Potter, and Dom Ryba.

SPORT CHATTER

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—(Wide World)—Folks who have been wondering whether Rhode Island's Stutz Nodelowski or Ernie Rostock of Eastern Oregon college will break Hank Luisetti's four-year basketball scoring record apparently have forgotten that a buy named Ken Griffin of Alderson-Broadbent college did it by 345 points last year when he hit a total of 1,941.

Kenneth is playing for the Akron Goodyear team now and hasn't scored as often as George Glamack, the former North Carolina star. Billy Dear, the Jersey amateur golf star who smashed his arm on a printing press last year, finally has his flipper out of a sling and expects to be back in circulation by summer.

One-Minute Sports Page
Bobby Faught, Notre Dame's resophomore basketball center, picked the college as a good place to play tennis. Jack Curley, who has seen fighters come and go for 16 years as manager of Stulman's gym, and his son, Arthur, both will register for the draft Monday. Jack is 43, Arthur 20.

The Arkansas U. recruiting corps, which corralled four Arkansas Tech stars who had visited 11 college campuses before making up their minds, is looking over Sonny Lloyd, Blytheville (Ark.) High school ace. Lloyd, ticketed for Georgia, already had been hailed as the next Frank Sinkwich.

Elliott Chase, Lake Charles (La.) American Press: "Because Hans Lobert has threatened to take the Phils out of the cellar, a lot of marties are snickering. Well, everybody said Burbank couldn't take the seeds out of the orange."

Cleaning the Cuff
Baltimore has offered Billy Confi $10,000 to meet the winner of Monday's Red Burman-Johnny Shaker fight. Herman Hickman, the North Carolina State coach who takes—and gives—plenty of kidding about his 295 pounds, tells this one on himself. Figuring his bulk wouldn't be acceptable to the army, Hickman decided to get his name into the headlines by offering to enlist. The morning he planned to visit the recruiting office, he picked up a paper and read: "Tank corps accepts Man Mountain Dean."

Ritchie Shines As Hi-Y Tops Reserves

With Bob "Buck" Ritchie, former High school star, setting a torrid 15 point pace the Salem Hi-Y cagers nosed out the Salem reserves, 31-30, in a hot contest on the local High school floor last night for their sixth consecutive win of the year. The loss was the fifth of the campaign for the Quakers.

The Hi-Y led at the end of a slow initial frame, 3-2, with Ritchie scoring all three points. Dick Culbertson tallied the reserves' lone bucket. The action speeded up somewhat in the following quarter as the Hi-Y turned on the heat to grab a 12-6 edge at the half. Ritchie's four points again paced the Hi-Y.

With Frank "Flick" Entriaken drilling the hoop for five points, the Salem future varsity pulled up to within two points of the school club to trail by 19-17 at the end of three quarters of play. Ritchie again scored four tallies.

In the torrid last quarter, the reserves rallied gamely in an effort to score their 12th win of the year and nearly pulled the trick. They fell one point short as Ritchie and Bob Scullion tossed in a pair of buckets each. Phil Cozad garnered his entire nine points in that hectic final stanza.

Ritchie copped individual scoring honors with 15 points while Cozad's nine topped the reserves. Scullion tossed in eight for the Hi-Y but the rest of the scoring for both teams was well divided.

Ritchie's floor work and leadership were outstanding and he was important actors in the Hi-Y triumph. Culbertson, Lem G. Green and Ehrhart all turned in valiant performances for the losers, with Ray Wise leading the floor play.

A sizable crowd was on hand to witness the annual battle and the game was well appreciated by the many people who could not attend the Salem-Akron West tilt in Akron.

1225 BY KNEPPER, BOLEN TAKES LEAD IN DOUBLES EVENT

Two Other Teams Slip Into Eighth, Ninth Spots: Garlock Fires 638

Pat Bolen and Ralph Knepper shot a 1225, on a handicap of 78, on the Grate alleys last night to go into the lead in the doubles of the city handicap tournament. It was the first doubles team to break 1200.

Only two other doubles teams got very far in the money last night. B. Briggs and T. Flugan of Lisbon hit 1137, handicap 156, for eighth place and R. Basinger and H. Culp of Columbiana posted 1136, handicap 75, for ninth place.

In the singles events last night's bowlers fared even worse. Garlock, with a 638, handicap 69, went into seventh place. None of the others broke into the first 15 in the singles standings to date.

The tourney will come to a close with doubles and singles events scheduled for Monday and Tuesday nights. There is still plenty of room near the top for the doubles teams, as scores in this event have been exceptionally low. Better singles scores have been chalked up, but in this event several changes are expected in the final two nights of bowling.

Farm War Board Says Order Repair Parts Now

This farmer is ordering his repair parts now, thereby making sure that his farm equipment will be in top shape for seeding and harvesting. The County USDA War Board says it is highly important that all farmers do this. Last minute repairs may not be possible due to shortages. Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard has declared that it is every farmer's patriotic duty to have his machinery in best possible condition in 1942 for production of victory foods. "Check over your old machinery and order necessary parts from your dealer," he advises. "If parts cannot be obtained, notify your County USDA War Board."

GERMANY'S SPRING OFFENSIVE STARTS

Thousands upon thousands of words upon the world in many languages is not only the courier of the offensive; it is also its mirror. Some of this poison, date-lined Stockholm and attributed "to neutral sources," gets here under the name of Guenter Tonn.

Few Americans remember Tonn, although he was an important and faithful fifth columnist. He was the furtive and rather shabby German "journalist" who finally was arrested in New York last spring and shipped back to Germany after a real or pretended suicide attempt on Ellis island. The Nazis rewarded him for his valuable work in this country by foisting him off on the Swedes, who probably feel they are in no position to protest.

Salem Entered In Debate Meet At East Palestine

Salem High school debaters are entered in the district debate tournament, which will be held in the near future at East Palestine.

Dale E. Gibson, head of the East Palestine school speech department, several weeks ago requested that the tournament be held in a centrally located city to comply with the government's appeal to save tires and cars. The tournament was originally scheduled to be held in Massillon. Although a definite date has not been set, winners must be certified to the state department of education in Columbus by April 1, so the tourney probably will be held in March, Gibson said.

Other schools entered are Akron, Springfield and Minerva.

GERMAN VESSELS REACH HOME BASE

lating a situation as any that yet confronted us....

"Have we not been hypnotized by Mr. Churchill's personality....?"

The Daily Herald, labor, said "we look pretty foolish," while the Mirror asked: "Is it any longer true to say we trust the prime minister though we do not trust his government?"

Taking Too Much

"Mr. Churchill must be brought by one means or another to a clearer recognition of some essential truths. Does he take too much upon himself?... should he not limit the numbers of his cabinet and improve its quality?"

The Bremen radio said the German battleships Gneisenau and Scharnhorst and the heavy cruiser Prinz Eugen reached their base "despite British vigilance."

The Nazis were home after their 700-mile dash through the English channel but they took some comfort in the broadcast report of a British motor torpedo boat commander that two torpedo hits "appeared to us to have been scored on the cruiser Prinz Eugen."

It was disclosed meanwhile that Churchill anxiously had followed the battle for hours in the admiralty war room, standing before a big map of the English channel.

IGOROTES FIGHT IN PHILIPPINES

Help MacArthur Launch Successful Counter-Attack On Japs

By CLARK LEE
WITH GENERAL MACARTHUR ON BATAAN PENINSULA, Feb. 14.—(Delayed)—Tough, wiry Igorotes, their keen-edged bolos slung over their backs, rode the tops and sides of American tanks today helping Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Filipino troops launch a successful counter-attack in the hilly terrain on the western flank of the Bataan front.

Despite the heroic resistance of the Igorotes, a Japanese push in overwhelming numbers had driven a short wedge into the MacArthur lines. The Igorotes, natives of the mountain provinces of Luzon, refused to give an inch. They fought until they were overwhelmed in their foxholes and trenches.

Pushing on over the bodies of the Igorotes, the Japanese drove a short distance farther before they were halted by reinforced Filipino units.

Then counterattacks were ordered to straighten the line and, despite the roughness of the country, tanks were sent to lead the infantry.

Igorote volunteers, most of them recruits who had never worn a pair of pants, sent a rifle or even dreamed of such a thing as a tank until called into service, clambered aboard the machines and guided the drivers by signalling against their vehicles' steel sides with their rifle bolts.

Where trees grew too close together for the tanks to penetrate, the Igorotes jumped down and cleared a path with their bolos.

The tanks overran the Japanese positions, blasting openings for the infantry, which mopped up the Japanese and finished the attack with its lines reestablished.

The more experienced Moros from the southern Philippine islands also have distinguished themselves in recent fighting, especially in hand-to-hand encounters with bayonet and bolo. They welcome this type of combat.

Many cases have been reported of Moros thrusting one shoulder into an enemy bayonet, holding it in the wound with the left hand and then dispatching the enemy with bolo or bayonet.
